How Catcher was Caught.

Full tall was he, with sinewy muscles, And shoulders broad and full and square, With limbs designed for mighty tussles, And the regular prize-ring crop of hair ; And he played, with skill exceedingly fine,

The catcher's place in a Western nine. He was rich in all of the manly graces-A very Apollo from head to heel;

And, though he was good at the stealing of bases, He never was base enough, surely, to steal. A foul, indeed, his pulses stirred,

But he never was foul in deed or word. As fair was she as the sun uprising, A blooming maiden, with Inscious lips, Whose dainty completeness was really surprising.

Down to her rosy finger-tips; And she often sat on the stand in the shade, And saw the games which that catcher played.

And whenever he seized on a hot one nicely, Or caught a foul with agility, She clapped her hands, for that was precisely

The sort of thing she wanted to see; For much did this blooming maiden pine For the catcher who caught in that Western nine. Wherefore it was meet, when the games were over,

The catcher, so brave and manly and tall, Should frequently play the part of a lover In a game considerably older than ball; And if an occasional error be made,

"Twas simply because with a miss he played. For, spite of her love, this maid was addicted To ways most coquettish and naughty and sly, And the man of the diamond-field was restricted

To take love's favors, as 'twere on the sly ; And though she protested at kissing, I doubt If the maid by the catcher was ever put out! At that dangerops hour, while yet the sun lingers Above the horizon and Nature is dumb, He would hold her small hand between his jamms

And stroke her soft hair with his stiff-jointed thum And often their walks were extended so late. "Twas eleven o'clock when she crossed the hom

At last he mustered up courage and told her How fondly he longed to make her his wife, And she rested her head on his manly shoulder While he eagerly asked " would she give him a life?

And he hinted with emphasis, leaving no doubt

That, should she refuse him, he'd surely strike out 'Twas the umpire Love that gave the decision; The maiden permitted her lips to be kissed, And then looking up with slightly blurred vision, She blushingly murmured: "Why, yes-I'll assist!" So the game to a right happy ending was brought, And thus as it happened the catcher was caught!

VARIETY.

VANDYKE BROWN.

A celebrated writer says : "No woman can be a lady who can wound or mortify another. No matter how beautiful, how refined or bow cultivated she may be, she is, in reality, coarse, and the innate vulgarity of her nature manifests itself here. Uniformly kind, courteous and polite treatment of all persons is one mark of a Young man, don't feel worried because the world does not appreciate your talents. Be sure that you have the talents, and then, sooner or later, some one will find it out. A golden guinea was once buried in an ash heap, and it mourned its forlorn condition. It said, despondingly, "I shall never come to anything. Nobody knows I am here, and I shall never occupy the position I deserve." By and by, however, a poor old woman drove her iron poker down into the heap, looking only for bits of coal, and saw the coin. She took it into her hand, trembling at her good fortune. Even she knew its worth. She spent it, and ere long it took its place by the side of other golden coins of commerce, and at last passed even through royal hands. Nobody asked where it came from, and even if they had been told that for months it was buried in an old ash heap, they would not have cared. The fact that it was genuine gold was enough. Get ready for something great, and the something great will sooner or later find you out, for in the long run:

We reap what we sow, Oh! wonderful truth-A truth hard to learn in the days of our youth; But it shines out at last as "the hand on the wall." For the world has its "debit" and "credit" for all.

THE SALARIES OF CIRCUS MEN .- " How are the salaries of the performers in the equestrian profession, Mr. Barnum?" "Well, I pay my best rider $100 a day, Sunday included; that is, $700 a week. The leading lady equestrienne gets $300-they generally receive about $150 to $200 from other concerns. Pad-riders get about-well, say from $100 to $125 per week.' "How are the acrobats and gymnasts, and that class of performers, paid ?" .. From $50 to $100 per week, according to ability and the danger of their performance. There are a great many of them to be had, always plenty on the market, but I always have the best." " Do clowns receive-?"

"Clowns always command good salaries, and a really first-class clown is worth from $150 to $175 per week, and some, such as Ted Almonte-poor Ted !- who died recently, was earning more in the season." On advertising he was quite sane :

" Ah !" said the great showman, with half a sigh, " advertising is a heavy drain, but then if I didn't advertise I wouldn't make anything. My pictorial printing this year has already cost me $43,000, but my newspaper bills in a season amount to a great deal more. My expenses on my trip three years ago amounted to $650,000, and in that year in six months the profits was $60,000.

The master of Trinity, Cambridge, lately remarked at a Fellows' meeting, at which some over confident opinions were advanced : "Gentlemen, we are none of us infallible, not even the youngest of us."

Dr. Milne, the excellent missionary to China said that to acquire the Chinese language " is a CROCERY AND FEED STORE, work for men with bodies of brass, lungs of steel, and heads of oak, hands of spring steel, eyes of eagles, hearts of apostles, memories of angels, and lives of Methuselahs."

A young man made his appearence at Deadwood last week in a pair of white pants. He was promptly escorted to the cars, put on board of them, and an injunction placed upon him never to revisit the place. "We can stand a b'iled shirt, you know, but when it comes to wearin' b'iled drawers, we just make them git up and git." ATROCTOUS .- " Did it ever occur to you," eaid he, timidly, leaning around the doorpost, that a steam engine and a trained syster are not wholly unlike!" Mingled with the racket produced by an office chair violently hurled after his vanishing form, came certain confused sounds which resembled—" Because, you see, chey are both controlled bivalves." A base-ball player was never elected to Congrees. This fact should be a strong inducement for our youth to organize base-ball clubs .-Norristown Herald.

" Fine nameook, embroidered, makes lovely little slips for children," says a fashion writer. Orange peel on a sidewalk continues to be good enough for men. "We all know," said a cockney school committeeman to a new teacher he was examining KULAMANU. for her position, "that A B and C is vowels;

but what we wants to know is vy they is so." Square umbrellas are reported as the latest thing in Paris. That's nothing. We have been using square umbrellas a long time; at least they are never round—when wanted.—
